

Prohibited Person as defined in Section 21, Chapter 27 of Firearms Act 1968

Please note: This is a summary created for the Southend on Sea Rifle and Pistol Club Website.

Prohibited Person

A person who has been sentenced to imprisonment, detention or corrective training for a term of three years or more, is permanently prohibited from having any firearms or ammunition in their possession. This means for life and includes all firearms, even air weapons.

A person sentenced to imprisonment, detention or corrective training for a period of over three months but less than three years is prohibited from possessing firearms and ammunition for five years from date of release.

It is an offence to sell or transfer firearms and ammunition to a person you have grounds to believe may be prohibited.
